Safe Paint Disposal Guide

Use extra paint for odd jobs such as closets, undersides of steps, fences, dog houses, attics, or apply extra coats to use up small amounts. Donate extra paint to community outreach programs, schools, churches, shelters, or theater groups for their use. Brush small amounts of extra paint onto newspaper, cardboard, or other items to dry, and dispose of it with regular trash.

For latex paints, water-based paints, and small amounts of oil-based paints you can remove or punch holes in the lid and set the can in a dry, well-ventilated area to allow the liquid to evaporate. Keep away from children and pets. This may take several hours to several months depending on the type and quantity of paint that you have. The container can then be thrown out with the rest of the trash. Leave the lid off so trash collectors can see the paint is dried and accept them.

Blend absorbent material such as cat litter, shredded newspaper, shredded corn cobs, or saw dust with latex or oil-based paints and allow it to dry completely, then throw it out with regular trash. You may also remove the dried paint and recycle the container.

For large amounts of paint, pour the paint in thin layers into a cardboard box lined with plastic so it will not leak. You can also add cat litter, sawdust, shredded newspaper, crushed corn cobs, or other absorbent materials and allow the liquid to dry.

Never pour latex or oil-based paint on the ground or into storm drains as it will contaminate nearby rivers, streams, and lakes. Do not throw liquid paint into the trash as it can seep through the garbage, mix with rain and other liquids, and contaminate ground water- quite possibly your source of drinking water!!
